§ 36

Supplementary capital is built from the net profit generated in the accounting year and from the surplus gained in the issue of shares above the nominal value that remains when the cost of the issue is covered; its purpose is to cover balance-sheet losses which may arise in connection with the Bank's activities. In the supplementary capital the Bank also reflects settlements from incentive programmes based on shares of the Bank, in accordance with the accounting principles currently in force.

§ 37

Reserve capital is built from a part of the annual net profit, separate from the supplementary capital, with the purpose of covering specific losses and expenses of the Bank or for other purposes. In the reserve capital the Bank also reflects the valuation of incentive programmes based on shares of the Bank, in accordance with the accounting principles currently in force.

§ 38

The General Meeting takes decisions on utilizing supplementary capital and reserve capital; however, a part of the supplementary capital, amounting to one third of the share capital, may be used only to cover balance sheet losses.

§ 39

Other items of own capital are created in accordance with the accounting principles currently in force.

§ 40

The general banking risk reserve shall be formed from amounts written off from the annual net profit for unidentified risks in banking activity.

§ 41

The principles of building up and using the company social fund are set forth in separate regulations. Allocations made on the basis of net profit can also add to the fund.

§ 42

The net profit may be allocated to:

- a) supplementary capital, reserve capital, general banking risk reserve and other, in an amount stipulated every year by the General Meeting for each capital and fund separately,
- b) dividend for shareholders in an amount stipulated every year by the General Meeting,
- c) other purposes as per resolutions adopted by the General Meeting.

§ 43

1. The payment of dividend - if it is made - shall take place on dates fixed by the General Meeting.
2. The Bank does not pay interest to shareholders on dividend not collected in due time.

V. ACCOUNTANCY OF THE BANK

§ 44

The Bank keeps accounting books pursuant to accounting regulations set out under separate provisions. Detailed principles and organization of accountancy shall be determined by the Board of Management.

§ 45
