Basis for opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with the National Standards on Auditing in the wording of the International Standards on Auditing as adopted by the resolution of the National Council of Statutory Auditors ("NSA") and pursuant to the Law of 11 May 2017 on Registered Auditors, Registered Audit Companies and Public Oversight (the "Law on Registered Auditors") and the Regulation (EU) No. 537/2014 of 16 April 2014 on specific requirements regarding the statutory audit of public-interest entities (the "EU Regulation"). Our responsibilities under NSA are further described in the Auditor's responsibilities for the audit of the financial statements section of our report.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion.

Independence

We are independent of the Company in accordance with the International Code of Ethics for Professional Accountants (including International Independence Standards) issued by the International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants (IESBA Code) as adopted by resolution of the National Council of Statutory Auditors and other ethical requirements that are relevant to our audit of the financial statements in Poland. We have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements and the IESBA Code. During the audit, the key registered auditor and the registered audit firm remained independent of the Company in accordance with the independence requirements set out in the Law on Registered Auditors and in the EU Regulation.

Our audit approach

Overview

- The overall materiality threshold adopted for the purposes of our audit was set at PLN 3 106 thousand, which represents 0.9% of total assets.
- We have audited the annual financial statement of the Company for the period ended 31 December 2022.
- Key Audit Matter related to proper revenue recognition

As part of designing our audit, we determined materiality and assessed the risks of material misstatement in the financial statements. In particular, we considered where the Company's Management Board made subjective judgements; for example, in respect of significant accounting estimates that involved making assumptions and considering future events that are inherently uncertain. As in all of our audits we also addressed the risk of management override of internal controls, including among other matters, consideration of whether there was evidence of bias that represented a risk of material misstatement due to fraud.

Materiality

The scope of our audit was influenced by our application of materiality. An audit is designed to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement. Misstatements may arise due to fraud or error. They are considered material if, individually or in aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of the financial statements.

Based on our professional judgement, we determined certain quantitative thresholds for materiality, including the overall materiality for the financial statements as a whole, as set out in the table below.

These, together with qualitative considerations, helped us to determine the scope of our audit and the nature, timing and extent of our audit procedures and to evaluate the effect of misstatements, if any, both individually and in aggregate on the financial statements as a whole.

Overall materiality	PLN 3 106 thousand
How we determined it	0.9% of total assets
Rationale for the materiality benchmark applied	We chose total assets as the benchmark because, in our view, it is the measure against which the performance of a holding entity is commonly assessed and so may be regarded as a generally accepted benchmark. We chose 0.9% because based our professional judgment it is within accepted qualitative thresholds.

We agreed with the Audit Committee of the Company that we would report to them misstatements of the financial statements identified during our audit above PLN 310 thousand (for classification misstatements in the balance sheet i.e. not affecting net result or equity, with a value exceeding twice the overall materiality), as well as misstatements below that amount that, in our view, warranted reporting for qualitative reasons.

Key audit matters

Key audit matters are those matters that, in our professional judgement, were of most significance in our audit of the financial statements of the current period. They include the most significant identified risks of material misstatements, including the identified risks of material misstatement resulting from fraud. These matters were addressed in the context of our audit of the financial statements as a whole, and in forming our opinion thereon. We do not provide a separate opinion on these matters.

Key audit matter	How our audit addressed the key audit matter
Correct recognition of revenue recognition In 2022, revenues amounted to PLN 149,916 thousand. PLN (in 2021: PLN 111,238 thousand). Accounting policies and disclosures on revenue are presented in notes 4.22 and 4.25 of the introduction to the financial statements and in notes 9, 15 and 18 of additional information and explanations to the financial statements. Revenues from sales are one of the key figures showing the results of the Company's operating activity, they indicate the degree of coverage of fixed costs of the conducted activity and are an indicator of market share.	Our audit procedures included in particular: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• understanding and evaluating of processes and internal controls related to recognition, measurement and presentation of revenue from sales;• assessment of the compliance of the applied accounting policies with the relevant accounting regulations;• analysis of selected contracts concluded by the Company,• test, on a selected sample, of revenues recognized during the financial year through independent confirmations with customer of selected sales transactions, their value and

In addition, part of the revenue relates to the provision of research services that are not completed as at the balance sheet date, which requires estimating the stage of completion of the unfinished service in order to determine the amount of revenue due, using the cost method and the matching principle.

Therefore, there is a risk of misstatement of the financial statements as a result of an error or intentional overstatement of sales revenues in the financial statements by, for example, including fictitious sales transactions or incorrect determination of the percentage of completion of the service.

Considering the above, we considered this to be a key audit matter.

payment by the customer;

- independent confirmation of the existence and value of selected items of trade receivables as at the balance sheet date (for a selected sample);
- test, on a selected sample, of credit notes adjusting the value of revenues during and after the end of the audited financial year;
- for contracts not completed as at 31 December 2022, for which revenue is recognized over time, conducting tests of details on a selected sample of contracts, including:
 - reconciliation of revenues from contracts to the agreement,
 - recalculation of revenues according to the percentage of completion of the project adopted by the Company, reconciliation of incurred costs and recalculation of the planned margin;
 - understanding, through discussions with the management and analysis of documents, the reasons for the deviations of the actual margin in relation to the budgeted margin and, where we considered it necessary, verifying these deviations against the source documentation;
 - comparison of invoiced revenues and payments for issued invoices;
- evaluation of significant accounting estimates and judgments made by the Company's Management Board;
- based on the size of transactions and their risk, a detailed test was performed for a selected sample of sales transactions at the turn of the balance sheet year, ensuring that they were recognized in the appropriate period;
- test of all material journal entries impacting sales revenues during the year that meet certain criteria defined by us,
- assessment of disclosures in the consolidated financial statements regarding sales revenues and related judgments and estimates.

Responsibility of the Management and Supervisory Board for the financial statements

The Management Board of the Company is responsible for the preparation, based on the properly maintained books of account of the annual financial statements that give a true and fair view of the Company's financial position and results of operations, in accordance with the provisions of the Accounting Act, the adopted accounting policies, the applicable laws and the Company's Articles of Association, and for such internal control as the Management Board determines is necessary to enable the preparation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, the Company's Management Board is responsible for assessing the Company's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the Management Board either intends to liquidate the Company or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

The Company's Management Board and members of the Supervisory Board are obliged to ensure that the financial statements comply with the requirements specified in the Accounting Act. Members of the Supervisory Board are responsible for overseeing the financial reporting process.

Auditor's responsibility for the audit of the financial statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with the NSA will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.

The scope of the audit does not include an assurance on the Company's future profitability nor the efficiency and effectiveness of the Company's Management Board conducting its affairs, now or in future.

As part of an audit in accordance with NSA, we exercise professional judgement and maintain professional scepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control;
- obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control;
- evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by the Company's Management Board;
- conclude on the appropriateness of the Company's Management Board's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Company to cease to continue as a going concern;

- evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation

We communicate with the Audit Committee regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide the Audit Committee with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, actions taken to eliminate threats or safeguards applied.

From the matters communicated to the Audit Committee, we determine those matters that were of most significance in the audit of the financial statements of the current period and are therefore the key audit matters. We describe these matters in our auditor's report unless law or regulation precludes public disclosure about the matter or when, in extremely rare circumstances, we determine that a matter should not be communicated in our report because the adverse consequences of doing so would reasonably be expected to outweigh the public interest benefits of such communication.
