The Company’s CEO Mr. Borys Bielikov commented:

“2022 proved to be hard not only for the egg industry but also for any business that keeps working despite the tough effects of the military aggression against Ukraine.

Throughout the year, the Company now and again faced various challenges that urged to seek new approaches to the logistics, sales markets, production technology and overall operations.

Problems with supply chains, additional export and import regulations, internal and external migration, temporary occupation of some territories in the first half of the year, as well as worsening purchasing power and electricity cut-offs in the second half made the Company decrease its investments in the new flock and optimize other processes.

Although by the end of 2022 the total flock fell by 14% Y-o-Y, the Group managed to soften the negative effects, which resulted in just 9% decrease of the production volume. At the same time, the sales volume fell by only 6% on the account of, among other things, lower volumes of processing.

All this, added to the favorable price dynamics observed on the world shell eggs and egg products market in the second half of 2022, makes the management content with the Groups operational results.”
